

The Boards role in ensuring you are an employer of choice (for Governors and Trustees)

Overview

"Effective Leadership; a supportive and productive work environment; great professional development; a strong team; a common purpose; a great work/life balance."

These are the things that most employees in any organisation will say they want. How can governing boards support their schools to make these a reality for their staff?

This training session will help those governing in schools understand the role boards can play in making their school the employer of choice.

What you will learn:

- Understanding your statutory employer duties and the legislative framework
- What is the boards role as an employer?
- How to support the motivation and engagement of staff
- Understanding the teacher workload recommendations
- How to monitor performance management and professional development in your school
- How to develop strategies to make you the employer of choice

Tutor

Julie Taylor - With over 25 years in education and Governance, Julie is an experienced chair and National Leader of Governance who has a track record of supporting governance boards across Essex and beyond.

About NLGs

National Leaders of Governance (NLGs) are experienced chairs of governing boards. All NLGs have been through a rigorous designation process from the National College of Teaching and Leadership (NCTL), a part of the Department for Education (DfE), to demonstrate that we have the skills, experience and attributes to be a National Leader of Governance. All NLGs are either actively chairing standalone schools or academies, local governing boards or multi academy trust (MAT) trust boards or have done so within the last five years.
